Residence Life Program Promises New Experiences

By Kim Montague
Director of Residence Life

Welcome to USC-Coastal Carolina College. We're glad you've decided to become an integral part of the community at Coastal Carolina. The Residence Life Program at Coastal will be an exciting new experience for everyone associated with the College.

We are committed to the belief that your personal growth outside the classroom is as important a factor in your total education as your growth and development in the classroom. In all phases of your college career we feel; strongly that personal growth must also accompany inter-personal growth; that in order to understand yourself you must come to understand others. This isn't something that happens to you, but something you make happen through your involvement with other students and The Staff, who are here to be of assistance.

In short, we see the residence life program at Coastal Carolina as people helping each other in a community that cares about both the individual and the group. This isn't just a goal we hope to attain, but something we are committed to daily.

The philosophy of the residence life program can best be summed up by listing those areas of personal growth and development which we strive to compliment through our programs and services. These are as follows:

1. Developing Autonomy. This area of development involves becoming free of a continual need for assurance and approval. At the same time you develop reciprocal respect with parents and peers. Your capacity for self sufficiency expands. Autonomy also involves becoming aware of the relationship between your behavior and your community welfare.
2. Developing Mature Interpersonal Relations. This aspect of develop-

Chancellor Urges New Students To Begin 'Networking' Process

By Ronald Eaglin
Chancellor

Welcome Class of '91, and congratulations on your decision to attend USC Coastal Carolina College. As a student at Coastal Carolina you will have access to many excellent academic opportunities, and those of you who take full advantage what is available will be among this country's best and brightest college graduates.

There is something else that is very special about Coastal Carolina College; the people you will meet -- other students, faculty, and staff -- people who will have a long-term impact on your life. Your time at Coastal Carolina is where the process of "networking" will begin, and where you will develop relationships that will continue for years after you graduate. The student sitting next to you in your English class may be someone who will help you make an important career move ten years from now. The friend you make at the Physical Education Center may give you valuable advice about graduate school. The person you meet at a theatre or cultural event may introduce you to your first employer.

Chancellor

Networking -- supporting and accepting support from your colleagues--is a key to a successful career. During your college years, you must begin to lay the groundwork for your personal network of friends and colleagues. It is up to you to work at meeting new people, at breaking out of your small, comfortable groups and getting to know others. You'll be surprised at how much you have in common with students from other parts of the state, country, or world. You'll be intrigued when you discover that students in other disciplines are learning things that relate to what you are studying. I guarantee you will develop a new outlook. The relationships you form here will last a lifetime. It is up to you to make the new contacts and to search out those people who have different interests and goals. Involvement will enrich your life and start you on the road to a successful future.

I look forward to meeting each of you and to becoming part of your Coastal Carolina College network.

Bishop Crumley delivers the Commencement Address.

On-Campus Housing To Be Open By Fall

By Gordon Mayfield
Editor

This Fall, Coastal will move into a new era with the completion of the college's first dorms scheduled for September. Now, in addition to the previously offered convenient off-campus housing of Carolina Commons and Crossroads, Coastal students have the opportunity to live in apartment style housing on campus.

The new Dorms will house approximately four hundred students in a six building complex. Each building will contain six furnished apartments per floor with each apartment having four single bedrooms, living/dining/room, kitchen, and bathroom facilities. All units are air conditioned.

With the new dorms comes a new program -- the Residence Life Program. This program is headed by director Kim Montague who is assisted by Robin Johnson and twelve Resident Assistants (R.A.'s).

For more information contact the Office of Residence Life at (803) 347-3161, ext. 2343.

Chancellor Eaglin presents Interns Award To Senior Steve Vereen at graduation ceremonies

Graduation

He was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters from the University of South Carolina.

Chancellor Eaglin presented the University Awards and Distinctions. Receiving the "Chancellor's Award for Academic Achievement" was Loretta Smith Cendrowski. This award is given each year to the senior with the highest cumulative grade point ratio for all collegiate work. Ms. Cendrowski had a GPR of 3.939.

Other seniors mentioned, with a GPR over 3.83 were: David Shannon Stone, Donna G. Beardsley, Jamie Lynne Stanton, Patsy Lucinda Holmes, and Deidre Michelle Shelton.

"The Chancellor's Intern Awards" were given to Michael Steve Vereen and Michael J. Helenic. Vereen was an intern for three years as well as Senior Class President. Helenic was an intern for one and a half years.

Dr. Daniel M. Poore was honored as "Distinguished Professor Emeritus." This is one of the highest distinctions a retiring professor can receive.

Awarded the "Distinguished Teaching Award" was Dr. Chris Marsh. Marsh is an assistant professor of biology.

The Benediction was given by the class of 1987's Lou Ann Vereen and yet another group of Coastal graduates enters the world.

Brown Receives Assistantship, Adams Selected Intern

James Brown, a resident of Georgetown and recent graduate of Coastal, obtaining a Bachelor of Arts Degree in History, has received an Assistantship at Murray State in Murray, Kentucky in order to continue his studies.

James Adams, a resident of Elloree and currently a Sophomore at Coastal, majoring in Political Science, recently served as an intern to U.S. Senator Strom Thurmond in Washington.

ment sees you as responding to people as individuals, not stereotypes and respecting different backgrounds and values. This involves developing friendships which survive difference and separation and developing sensitivity to and awareness of other's feelings.

3. Developing Purpose. In this aspect of development you will be making well defined educational goals by seeing a relationship between study and other aspects of life. From this you come to develop an awareness of the world of work and to make a commitment to a chosen career field. At the same time these will blend to enable you to develop a future orientation which balances vocational aspirations, a vocational interests, and future family plans.

These are very broad goals. Recognizing this, our intention will be to work with you individually to develop the kind of experience you feel can meet your own individual needs.

There are times when things don't go as we plan. At one time or another this can happen to all of us. The Office of Residence Life will attempt to be as conscientious as possible in meeting your needs while living on campus. If you have problems or concerns, you will need to communicate those concerns as quickly as possible.

Beyond everything, we hope this year will be a fun year. We look forward to the challenges which are awaiting us. We look forward to working with you. We are confident that you as an individual and your residentie community will be mutually rewarding. Again, WELCOME!!

Students Encouraged To Apply Now For Financial Aid Next Year

Staff Report

Although many students who attend orientation seem to think that it is too late to apply for federal student financial aid, the financial aid office says: "That's not so!"

Student Services Program Coordinator III Will C. Allred, Jr., who manages the financial aid service at USC-Coastal, encourages all students to apply now. "Of course it is very late to be applying and any funds that the student receives will not be available to pay fees at registration time," Allred reported, "but funds authorized will be paid when they are received -- possibly by November 1, 1987."

Allred explained that the federal student financial aid formula assumes that a dependent student (one who lives at home with parents) and independent students (those who live on their own without parental assistance) are expected to save from their summer work at least $1000 to help them meet educational costs in the fall. "We know that many students are not able to save that amount but we are required to expect that of them," he said. With the strictness of the federal regulatory changes this year, a substantial number of students will be caught short on their financial planning for this fall.

In the 1986-1987 school year the USC-Coastal Carolina financial aid service repeated its five year record as the office which assisted our students to develop more funds than the other four-year colleges in the USC-System. Funds paid students as of April 30, 1987 were USC-Coastal $2,749,395; USC-Aiken $1,047,687; and USC-Spartanburg $1,328,635. In the two largest programs under which our students get money Pell Grants and Guaranteed Student Loans, USC-Coastal had paid 664 students $843,867 in Pell Grant funds. USC-Spartanburg had paid 466 students $541,075 and USC-Aiken had paid 307 students $397,564. Under the loan program, USC-Coastal had paid $1,652,111;

Will C. Allred, Jr.
Financial Aid

USC-Spartanburg $607,499; and USC-Aiken $435,751.

USC-Coastal's record of helping students get funds contributes significantly to the decisions students make to come to school here and to stay here. Allred commented: "Marketing a college is not difficult. Students come to a school that has sound curricula offerings; a faculty that is prepared and concerned; and an admissions office that is aggressive. Mix all of this together and add the magic ingredient called 'money availability' and you have a winning combination. That's what we have here at USC-Coastal."

The financial aid service will take part in the summer orientation sessions and will give out forms that can usually be completed by an applicant in an hour or so. The office is staffed by students and three permanent staff members (Ms. MacDonald, Ms. Tyler, and Mr. Allred). All students are urged to use the one easy form to apply for grants and loans (if they have to borrow) to help pay the costs for the September 1987 to May 1988 school year. The financial aid office is located on the second floor of the Student Center in room 206. Drop by if you need help to complete the application. And remember, applying this late means no funds until October or November so save those summer dollars!!

Associate Chancellor Of Student Development Welcomes All New Incoming Students

By Dr. Squatriglia
Associate Chancellor
Of Student Development

Welcome to the Coastal Carolina College campus and community. We are delighted that you are with us and we sincerely hope that you will enjoy and prosper in all of your activities with us.

Coastal Carolina College is an exciting place to be and I urge you to make a commitment to participate in at least one of the more than forty student organizations available to you on your campus. Through this participation, you will come to know your Class of 1991 and develop the out-of-classroom relationships that add so much to the quality of life on your campus.

You will meet with an outstanding group of Orientation Assistants specifically trained to work with you in behalf of your adjustment to the College. If you are a resident student (and we sincerely hope that you will be a part of this exciting new College program), you will be in contact with one of twelve equally well qualified and trained Resident Assistants. Both the Orientation and Resident Assistants are available to assist you in any way possible--providing you with the best opportunity of success now and in the future.

Best wishes and good luck in the coming year and in all of your College endeavors. The Coastal Carolina College family cares about you and we are proud that you have chosen to be part of our community.

Tenure Controversy Headed For Court

Ernest Dube, a South African professor at the State University of New York at Stony Brook, has announced plans to sue the school over its refusal to grant him tenure.

The case has touched off heated exchanges between minority leaders and prompted a two-day student occupation of the administration building.

Dube, an African National Congress spokesman who was jailed under apartheid for four years, has drawn the fire of New York Gov. Mario Cuomo and leaders of the Jewish community for stating in the classroom that Zionism is a form of racism.

SUNY Chancellor Clifton Wharton subsequently denied Dube tenure despite recommendations from four faculty committees.

In response, SUNY Stony Brook students staged a protest in the corridor outside president John Marburger's locked office. The conflict escalated when protesters bashed holes in the walls and smoke-bombed the office, and police sealed off the building. A sleep-in in the corridor and the main library ensued, with fraternities and sororities donating food and blankets to the protestors. The incident wound down when Marburger met with student leaders, but no resolution was reached. No disciplinary action has yet been taken.

In the aftermath of the takeover, students and faculty have staged numerous forums and teach-ins on the issue, and Dube has indicated he plans to file a discrimination suit.

Middlebury College Rejects SAT Scores

Middlebury College (VT) announced last month that it would no longer require applicants to submit Scholastic Aptitude Test scores beginning next fall. Middlebury joins Bates and Bowdoin Colleges (ME) and Union College (NY) among schools that have abandoned use of the SATs in the admission process. Applicants will be allowed to submit scores from five other College Board standardized tests, as well as similar tests offered by the American College Testing Program. The SATs have drawn a rising wave of criticism resulting from surveys that show they discriminate against women and minority groups. A Middlebury spokesman also said that gains in SAT scores by students from affluent areas led officials to believe that coaching, rather than achievement, was responsible for the higher scores.

Editor Urges Students To Get Involved In Outside Activities

I would like to take this opportunity to welcome everyone to Coastal. I am sure that your experiences here will remain with you forever. The Coastal campus offers much more to the student than just the academic side of college.

For example, there are over forty clubs and organizations for a student to get involved in. These range from Greek Fraternities to Student Publications to special interest clubs.

I urge each and everyone of you to get involved in at least one of these clubs and I promise that you will make new and valuable friendships that will last a lifetime.

After all, part of the college experience is to make friends and expand horizons. The clubs of Coastal Carolina College can do this if only you give them the chance. GET INVOLVED.

Congratulations To Dean Singleton

The Chanticleer Staff would like to congratulate Mrs. Patricia (Pat) Singleton on her promotion to Assistant Dean of Student Development. We wish her all the best.

Coastal Life

So You Have Decided To Attend Coastal...Now What?

By Richard N. Weldon
SGA President

Okay, so you have decided to attend college here at Coastal---now what can you expect while you are here.

As a student, former editor of this newspaper, current SGA President, and someone who works full-time while going to school, I think I can give a few insights to incoming students.

First of all, we all welcome you here. However, if you came to party at the beach for four full years, you may be in for a bit of shock your first semester. Just because we are located close to the beach, have nice weather year round, and are relatively small, please don't plan on "skating through the next four years."

This is not to say one has to constantly have ones nose stuck in books all of the time, because you don't. But just remember to have a good balance between work and play. Play too much, and you may not be with us for long, but study too much and you will miss out on a great college experience.

Take the time to get involved in a few extracurricular activities while you are here. No matter what your age or interests, there are things to get involved with here at Coastal. Even if you have to work full-time off-campus, have a family, or are new to the area, take some time to become part of the life here at Coastal. You probably only have this one chance in your life to be part of the "college scene," so enjoy yourself, and get involved and participate. If you don't, you WILL regret it down the road.

I am proud to say that we have a dedicated and top-notch faculty and staff here at Coastal. They are here because they want to be here. They are here for all of US, so don't be afraid to get your moneys worth---ask them for help when you need it.

Once you graduate from Coastal, this will always be "your" school. So why not try to make it a little better while you are here. The Student Government Association (SGA) is the main organization for students. The SGA is the liaison between the administration, faculty and staff and the students. So, if you have a suggestion, complaint or idea about ANY area of the college or college life, please contact your SGA officers or senators. After all, everyone else is here for US, not the other way around.

This coming year the SGA will be working with the administration/faculty/staff on a number of important issues to students including: a new core (basic required courses) curriculum for all students, campus services, parking issues, allocation of money, renovations, long and short range planning, new courses, new faculty members, and the new residence halls, to name a few.

The SGA will need the support of the student body in order to have some degree of success in these areas.

Students at Coastal have made a difference here, and they will continue to make an impact in the coming years.

Welcome aboard, and I expect to meet and hear from each and every student in the coming year. (However, if I don't hear from anyone, then I will assume that either I am doing such a great job that I don't need your input, or that you just don't care. In either case, it will be a blank check for me to really run amok...)

Come by and see me....or else.

Americans Volunteer For Work Camps

More than 200 young Americans are expected to volunteer for international work camps in Eastern and Western Europe this summer. Though little known in the U.S., international work camps have been operating for more than 30 years and bring together thousands of young people from around the world each year to work on projects that benefit the local community.

The Council on International Educational Exchange (CIEE), the largest student travel organization in the U.S., has been a sponsor of the work camps since 1982. Usually 2-4 weeks in duration, the camps provide free room and board to volunteers.

Projects for this summer include: restoring castles and forts and excavating ancient sites in Portugal, Czechoslovakia, France and Spain; community work in Denmark, Turkey, Wales, Germany and Holland; and agricultural and ecological programs in Poland, Hungary and Ireland.

There are no special skills required of volunteers simply a willingness to get involved and an open-minded approach. English is spoken at most camps except in France and Spain where the native language is used. Many participants use this opportunity to improve their language skills.

Volunteers must be at least 18 years old, except in Germany where 16 year-olds are accepted. Beyond a modest program fee of $100, there is no cost other than the airfare.

For more information and an application, contact CIEE, International Work Camps, 205 East 42nd St., New York, NY 10017. Telephone: (212) 695-0293.

Thousands Of Students To Work Abroad This Year

"I never dreamed," says Rutgers University student Gary Gordon, "when I signed on as a waiter with a London caterer, that I would be serving wine to the Queen of England at the royal wedding of Andrew and Sarah."

While not every student in the Work Abroad Program of the Council on International Educational Exchange (CIEE), the largest student exchange organization in the U.S., can expect to work at Buckingham Palace, most participants discover that finding a job abroad is no more difficult than at home.

Now in its eighteenth year, the Work Abroad Program is the only one of its kind. By cutting through the red tape it helps thousands of students obtain permission for temporary work in Britain, Ireland, France, Germany, New Zealand and Costa Rica.

Through services provided by the Council and its cooperating organizations in each country, most participants secure work within days of arrival, earning enough to cover room and board as well as a vacation trip once they stop working.

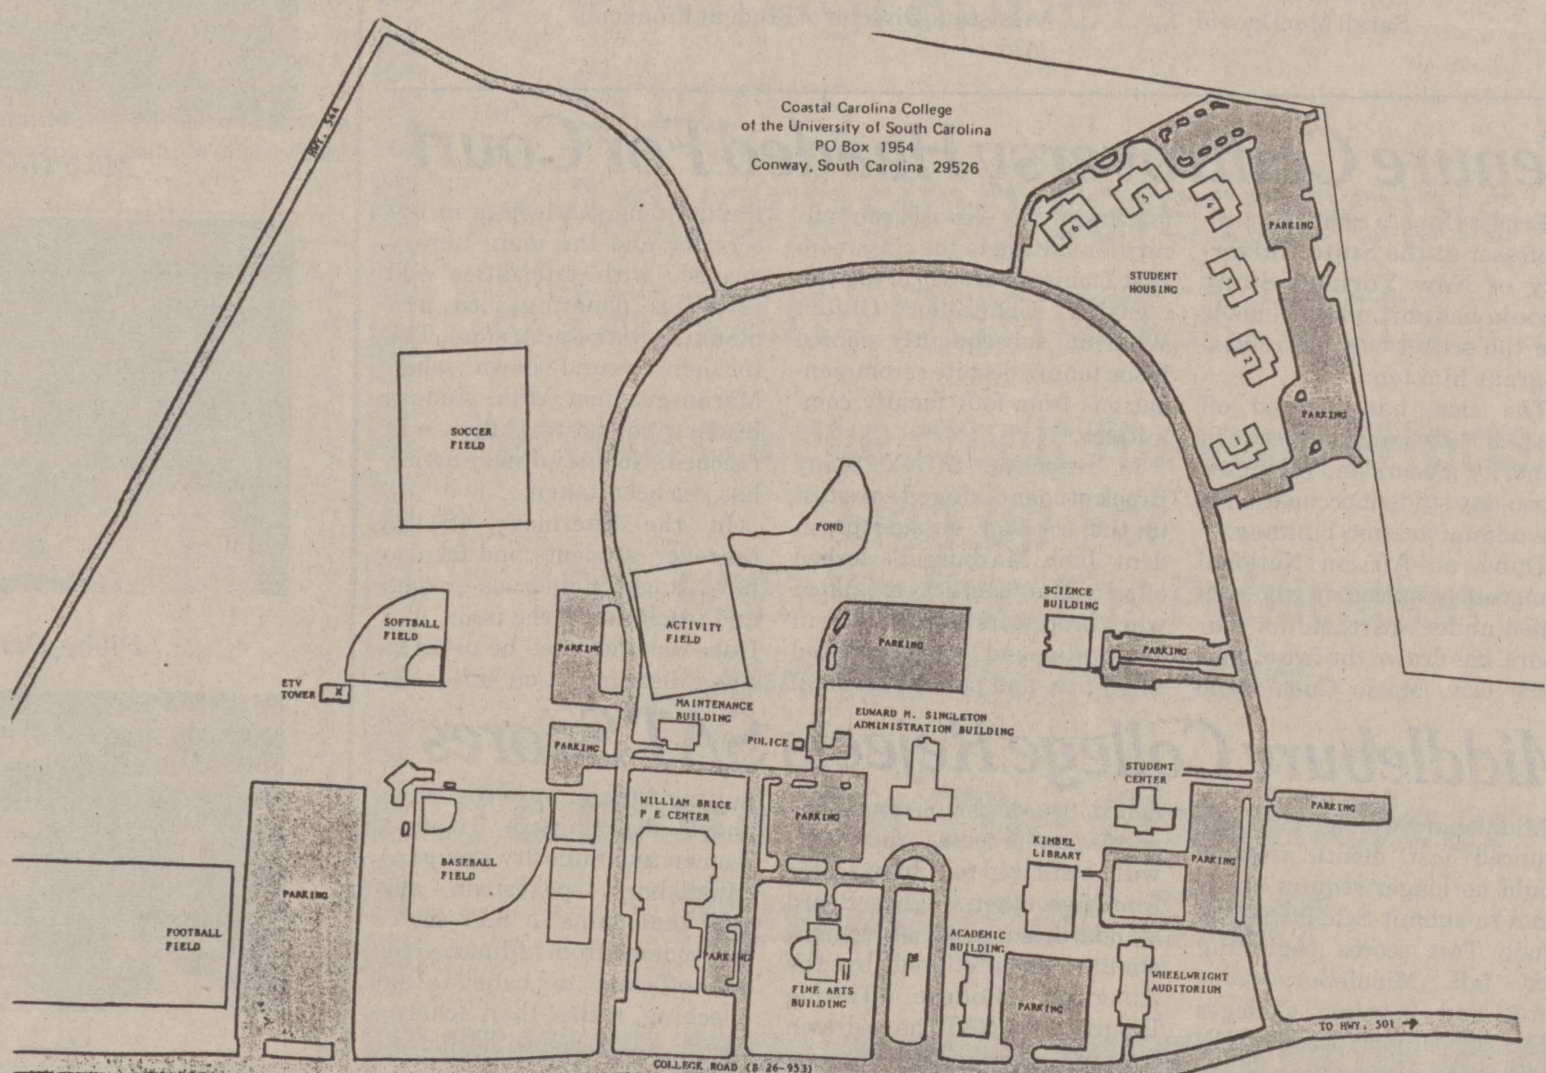

Participants find the program flexible and responsive to their individual interests. "My summer working and traveling abroad was the most informative, most productive, and most fun of my entire life," says one student.

Others stress its value as a personal learning experience. "The CIEE Work Abroad Program helped me acquire an unprecedented confidence in myself...an awareness of who I am, where I come from, and where I want to go." Some students also find the program useful in making international career contacts.

Most available jobs are of the unskilled variety - in bars, restaurants, stores and hotels, but some students have worked as lifeguards on the Cote d'Azur, as beauty consultants at Charles of the Ritz in London, as farm helpers on a New Zealand sheep station, or as banking trainees in a Parisian financial institution.

The program is open to U.S. students 18 years of age or older enrolled in a U.S. college or university. The only cost to the student is a modest program fee of $82 and the airfare to their destination abroad -- an expense that may be reduced by special student and youth fares available through Council Travel Services.

For more information and application forms, write or phone: Council on International Educational Exchange, PR-WA, 205 East 42nd Street, New York, NY 10017, (212) 661-1414; or 919 Irving Street, San Francisco, CA 94122, (415) 566-6222.

Coastal Offers Orientation Programs To Welcome New Incoming Students

Staff Report

Each summer, Coastal offers orientation programs to those individuals considering enrollment in the institution. These sessions require not only the hard work and dedication of the faculty and staff who put so much time into this program, but also that of a group of student Orientation Assistants.

It is the responsibility of the Orientation Assistant (O.A.) to welcome and assist new students during these orientation sessions. They must also make the student feel comfortable and relaxed and must have sufficient knowledge about the College.

Because of the responsibilities of an O.A. and the fact that these students are often the first and most lasting impressions of Coastal the new or prospective student will encounter, it is important that the O.A.'s complete a training program. This program not only addresses their weaknesses, but also brings out their strengths.

Regardless of what some may think, an O.A.'s job is not done after the Orientation sessions. They should be their if any new student needs them. Perhaps this is why the theme chosen for this year's Orientation is "Lean on Me."

The applicants for the O.A. positions are usually students who have been involved in many campus activities. These students are interviewed with only a few being selected. This year's O.A.s are: Ebbie Gore, Gregory Hamlin, Cindy Martin, Gordon Mayfield, Kathryn Pine, Mark Porter, Tracy Reed, Aniza Rowe, Daphne Stewart, Connie Vermont, and Kevin Werner.

Ebbie, a senior and former O.A., has been involved in Afro-Am, Leadership Challenge, and the Student Government Association (SGA). She is currently the College's Homecoming Queen. Greg is a sophomore and is involved in Campus Union, SGA, APO, and served as the College mascot. Cindy is also a sophomore and is active in the Student Nurses Association.

Gordon, a sophomore, is currently the editor of The Chanticleer, Chief Justice of the Student Supreme Court, SGA Parliamentarian, a Representative of the South Carolina Student Legislature (SCSL), interim chairperson of Coastal's SCSL delegation, and a member of Phi Alpha Delta Pre-law Fraternity.

Kathy is also a sophomore and is actively involved in Campus Union, of which she is currently Assistant Co-ordinator. She is a Senator of the SCSL, active in SGA, and Secretary/Treasurer of the Young Republicans club.

Mark is the former editor of the Antheneum, the yearbook, and is this year's Assistant Editor. He is a junior and will serve as one of the Chancellor's Interns. Tracy is also a junior and a Resident Assistant for the dorms. She is also the Vice-President of APO.

Aniza, a sophomore, is also a Resident Assistant and active in SGA. She is a member of the Allocations Committee, and active in Coastal's Choir, MENC, and Ensemble. Daphne, a junior, is involved in Afro-Am and SGA.

Connie, a senior and past O.A., is a member of the Student Affairs Committee, former Campus Union Co-ordinator, SGA Vice-President, and a Sig-Ep Little Sister.

Kevin is also a senior and past O.A. He is currently a member of the Allocations Committee, active in Campus Union, and the Fishing Club.

Office Offers Help To Students

The Office of Minority Student Relations is dedicated to the purpose of the College while assisting minority students academically, socially, culturally, and personally.

The office is responsible for developing, coordinating, and implementing programs involving minority students in the College and neighboring communities. The programs include such activities as Leadership Challenge, Black Heritage, Minority Experience Conference, workshops, guest speakers, peer tutoring, counseling, minority recruiting, awards banquet, post-secondary education and more.

The Office of Minority Student Relations works with the Afro-American Student Organization, Greek letter organizations, and residential hall students. Although the office addresses minority issues, its services are available to all students. The office is located in Room 206 of the Student Center, Student Development Division.

Young People's College Set

The Office of Continuing Education and the Horry County School District are sponsoring a Young People's College during July and August, 1987. This is an enrichment program for four and five year olds and rising 5th through 12th graders. Classes will be held in swimming and diving, tennis, chemistry, creative writing, computer science, and more. The program is designed for average to above average students who are motivated to explore interesting and challenging courses during the summer. Enrollment is limited and will be taken on a first-come, first-served basis. For more information, contact the Office of Continuing Education, ext. 2672.

Coastal Theatre Announces Exciting 1987-88 College Theatrical Season

The Coastal Carolina Theatre of the University of South Carolina Coastal Carolina College is pleased to announce its 1987-88 theatrical season. David E. Majewski, Director of the Coastal Carolina Theatre has packaged a season comprised of two American classic dramas, a classic musical, a Victorian farce and a new American play. "Our Play Selection Committee examined over fifty possible titles," said Majewski, "and we feel we have put together a popular, entertaining and thought-provoking season."

The season will open on October 9 with Tennessee Williams' CAT ON A HOT TIN ROOF, which will be directed by Dr. David E. Millard of the Coastal English Department. This highly successful play is a delicately wrought exercise in human communication. The story takes place on a southern plantation, where the members of the family are celebrating the sixty-fifth birthday of the Big Daddy, as they have sentimentally dubbed him. The tone is gay, but the mood is somber. A never-ending number of evils poison the gaiety - sins of the past, greedy hopes for the future and a desperate eagerness not to believe in the truths that surround them. This superb piece of theatre runs through October 11.

The second installment in the season will feature a new American play written by James Leonard, Jr. THE DIVINERS, which will open on November 13, concerns itself with the story of a disturbed young man and his friendship with a disenchanted preacher. A former winner of the American College Theatre Festival Student Playwriting Award, the story is set in the 1930's, in a small southern Indiana town. When the boy, Buddy, was very young he almost drowned. Due to this trauma, and because he lost his mother in the same accident, he is deathly afraid of water in any form. The ex-preacher comes from Kentucky and is set on breaking away from a long line of preachers in his family. Although determined to take an honest job, the townspeople persuaded him to preach. The play reaches its climax when the preacher attempts to wash the boy in the local river, and amidst confusion, the boy drowns. This penetrating drama, which will be an Associate entry in the American College Theatre Festival XX, will be directed by David E. Majewski and will run through November 15.

December 11 will bring the world-famous Victorian farce, CHARLEY'S AUNT by Brandon Thomas to the Wheelwright Auditorium stage. The story surrounds a pair of lovers and the deception they play concerning Charley's aunt. Jack Chesney loves Kitty Verdun and Charles loves Miss Spetigue. The two college lads invite the ladies to meet Charley's wealthy aunt from Brazil. But, the millionaire aunt sends word that she will have to defer her visit for a few days. The problem is solved by forcing another Oxford undergraduate male into a black satin skirt, a large fichu, a pair of mitts and an old-fashioned cap and wig. The play, who's director is yet to be named, will run through December 13.

The 1988 portion of the season begins on February 26 with Eugene O'Neill's DESIRE UNDER THE ELMS. This play, which deals with the lust of a young woman for her older husband's son, is considered to be one of the playwright's best known works. Also responsible for THE HAIRY APE, THE EMPEROR JONES, THE ICE-MAN COMETH and LONG DAY'S JOURNEY INTO NIGHT; this O'Neill play will be entered as an Associate entry in the American College Theatre Festival XXI. Directed by David E. Majewski, this scorching drama will run through February 28.

The season will close with the Rodgers and Hammerstein classic, CAROUSEL. Opening on March 25 and running through March 27, the play is set in 1873 in a New England coastal village. A handsome, carefree carnival barker captivates and marries a lovely, naive local girl. When she becomes pregnant, the prospect of fatherhood so unbalances him that he desperately resorts to robbery to provide for his family. Caught in the act, he kills himself and is sent "up there." What happens when he is allowed to return to earth for one day, during which he transforms both his wife and daughter into happy, hopeful people, is a dramatic testimony to the power of love. This sentimental, melodious smash musical will be directed by Carolyn G. Cox, Chair of the Coastal Music Department.

Season brochures are available now at the Wheelwright Auditorium. Subscription prices are $18.00 for five productions. Orders will be accepted after April 1, with a mid-May ticket mailing planned. For further information, contact the Wheelwright Auditorium Box Office on the campus of Coastal Carolina college. The phone number is 448-1481 or 347-3161, Extension 2502.

English 101C, Composing With Computers Offered

By Dr. Jill Sessoms
Writing Center Director

"English 101C is not just an ordinary English course. It's the first English course I have ever enjoyed."

That's what one student had to say about a new section of English 101, Freshman Composition, called English 101C (the 'C' is for "Computers"), which was offered in the fall of 1986.

Another wrote: "The computer makes writing more interesting and less difficult."

If you're an incoming freshman, you must sign up for an English course. If you're looking for a different kind of freshman English course, one with a new and exciting twist, consider signing up for English 101C. You'll find the course listed on the fall schedule for 8:30-9:45 on Tuesdays and Thursdays. It carries the same credit as the regular sections of English 101, and the course content is virtually the same as well. The major difference is that in English 101C, you'll be able to use the computer and a special word processing program designed especially for freshman composition to help you compose your papers.

You don't have to know anything about computers to sign up for the course; however, it is recommended that you have some basic typing ability, at least enough so that you are familiar with a keyboard.

Why should you sign up for English 101C? Consider the advantages. (1) You'll get clean, printed copies of all your papers—even first and second drafts. (2) You'll have access to a spelling check, a punctuation check, and a usage check (for help with confusing words, such as "too" and "to," "their" and "there"). There's even a checker for sexist language built into the program. (3) You'll become familiar with a word processing program that's easy to use and quite "user-friendly." (4) The task of revising and rewriting your papers will be made easier, thanks to the editing capabilities of the word processing program—you'll be able to move whole paragraphs around or to erase or insert paragraphs simply by pressing a few keys.

Much of the class time will be spent in writing papers, using the IBM Personal computers in the Computer Center of the E.M.S. Building. Each student will have his or her own copy of the HBJ Writer, furnished by the English Department, and access to a computer.

Good writing is hard work, and using the computer doesn't really change that fact. However, almost everyone agrees that the computer takes much of the drudgery out of writing. As one former student of English 101C put it: "When I use the computer, my writing flows—no more hand or finger cramps and fewer mental blocks. It helps take the unpleasantness out of writing."

Baseball Team Captures Third Place

Coach John Vrooman's squad ended the 1987 season with a third place finish in the 3rd Annual Big South Conference Baseball Tournament in Buies Creek, N.C. on May 14-16.

Coastal downed the host Camels on the first afternoon by a 9-8 margin. The Chants scored four runs in the top of the ninth for the come-from-behind victory. A 10-6 loss to Armstrong State the following morning placed the Chants in the loser's bracket, where Vrooman's squad eventually were eliminated by the eventual winner Winthrop College. Two single season individual school records fell by the wayside over the weekend. Freshman third baseman Tony Spires broke the mark for most triples in a season by hitting three in the tournament to give him a total of eight shattering Frank Talotta's 1983 record of seven.

Older brother Terry had already broken the record for doubles in a season during the last regular season homestand and ended the year with 21 and 50 games. The elder Spires combined with junior leftfielder Greg Streett to break the at-bats record. Both outfielders ended the year with 220 plate appearances. Sophomore lefthander Bobby Hargett became only the third Chant in the history of Coastal Carolina baseball to hurl over 100 innings in a season during the weekend tournament ending the year with 104.2 innings pitched.

Chant Basketball Signs Robert Dowell

USC Coastal Carolina head basketball coach Russ Bergman has announced that Robert Dowdell has signed a national letter of intent to play basketball for the Chanticleers.

Dowdell, a 6-foot point guard from Akron, Ohio, led Kenmore High School in scoring and assists last season by averaging 15.6 points and 4.0 assists per game while quarterbacking Coach Jerry Parson's squad to a 17-4 record and the Akron City Series Championship. He finished as the team's second leading rebounder with a 4.4 average and second on the squad in steals with 59.

"We're very excited about signing a quality person that's such a good student-athlete," noted Bergman. "Robert understands the game of basketball and should be able to step right in and give us quality time as a floor leader."

"His credentials coming out of high school not only point out the fact that he is an excellent defensive player and assists leader but he will be able to score for us, too."

The Coastal coaching staff first saw Dowdell at an AAU basketball tournament in Akron, Ohio. The Chants were participating in the Akron University Zip Classic at the time. "Our team's exposure to the Akron area while playing in the Akron tournament last year led us to Robert," Bergman finished.

He was named the Akron City and Summit County Player of the Year as well as being named 1st-team Akron Beacon Journal All-City, All-Summit County, Adron Beacon Journal All-District and All-North East Ohio. He was picked for the All-State 2nd-team by the Ohio Associated Press and United Press International.

Dowdell chose Coastal over local NCAA Division I schools such as Akron University and Kent State University. Jerry Parsons, head coach of Kenmore High, claimed that Dowdell was really pleased with the Coastal campus and what it had to offer.

"Coastal is getting a great athlete that can dunk the ball even though he's just under 6-feet tall," noted Parsons. "I don't think you'll find a more quality human being. He's serious about what he does and has a tremendous work ethic."

"He chose Coastal over Kent State and Akron even though his brother went to Akron and Kent State is another local NCAA Division I school."

Lady Sluggers
Finish Fifth

The 1987 Coastal Carolina softball team took fifth place in the 1st Annual Big South Conference Softball Tournament held in Rock Hill, S.C.

Coach Dee Kish's squad ended with a 19-20 record and placed catcher Sandy Cartrette on the All-Conference team.

Senior Athletes Honored At Banquet

The Coastal Carolina College Athletic Department honored its 18 seniors this past month at the Paddleboat Restaurant in Conway during Senior Recognition Night with special awards for their achievements in athletics.

Most Valuable Player Awards were also given to deserving athletes in eleven different sports. The MVP's for 1987 are: Bob Carr (Cross Country), Karen Ogelsby (Volleyball), Sanjay Jayaram (Tennis), Dave Mooney (Basketball), Chris White (Cross Country), Terry Spires (Baseball), Terri Woodruff (Basketball), Sigurdur Sveinbjornsson (Soccer).

The following seniors were honored at the banquet: George Beck (Baseball), Doug Bell (M. Basketball), Laurie Blume (Cheerleader), Sandy Cartrette (Softball), Michael Duggan (Soccer), John Faidley (M. Golf), Scott Fowler (Baseball), Ann Goodwin (W. Tennis), Jack Jolly (Baseball), Kathy Northrup (Softball), Karen Ogelsby (Volleyball), Robbie Spicer (Soccer), Terry Spires (Baseball), Adrian Winter, (Soccer), Roberta Ziegler (W. Tennis).

Coastal Gains All-Conference Honors

Coastal had 17 athletes named to various all-conference squads in 1986-87. The Big South Conference champion soccer squad led all teams with four players being named to the all-conference soccer team including Claud Huggins, Patrick Nolan, David Skulason and Sigurdur Sveinbjornsson. The men's golf team placed three players on the all-conference squad with Brian Lamb, Gus Pick and John Faidley. Three members of the baseball team were honored as Terry Spires was name all-conference, Matt Logue was the Fireman of the Year and Robbie Jordan was the Freshman of the Year. The women's tennis team had two picks with Kris Prunier and Trish Connell.

The Chants were represented in men's cross country by Bob Carr, in men's basketball by William Calvin, in volleyball by Karen Olgelsby, in women's basketball by Terri Woodruff and softball by Sandy Cartrette.

Banta Announces 87-88 Soccer Schedule

Head Soccer Coach Paul Banta has announced a 19-game soccer slate for the defending Big South Conference Champions in 1987.

This year's schedule includes dates with five of the top nationally ranked teams in the nation including Clemson University, the University of Virginia, the University of Maryland of the NCAA and Boca Rotan College and USC-Spartanburg of the NAIA ranks.

"We're taking a chance on not winning as many games," cautioned head coach Paul Banta. "But to move ahead and get a national ranking, we have to play nationally ranked teams. If we can beat some of those schools, then we could become nationally ranked."

The Chants will host the 4th Annual Big South Conference Soccer Tournament on November 5th and 7th after hosting a six-game home stand to end the regular season.

"Our fans want us to play tough teams. They're not interested in watching us blow someone out 11-0. They're interested in watching a game like the overtime thriller we played with West Virginia during the final home game last season," he added.

Coach Banta's squad has won 15 of their last 17 conference matches en route to a 15-8 record in 1984, a 14-8-1 mark in 1985 and the school's best-ever record of 18-2-1 last season.

"You want to play the level of players you know your players can play against. Our recruiting has gone so well so far we may upset one or two of those ranked teams we have on the schedule," he finished.

Physical Education Department Offering Summer Aquatics Program

The Physical Education Center is offering swimming classes throughout the summer beginning June 8. There are classes for all ages including Tiny Tots (4-24 months), Pre-School (2-4 years), Beginners (5 years & up), Advanced Beginners (5 years & up), and Intermediate Swimmers (5 years & up). In addition to regular swimming classes, diving, junior swim team, water exercise, and scuba will be taught.

Participants may choose to enroll in classes scheduled to meet five days per week with new classes beginning every two weeks or monthly classes meeting twice per week. All classes are open to the public. The cost is $15 for members and $25 for non-members.

For more information or to enroll in one or more of the swimming classes, contact the P.E. Center at 347-3162 or 448-1482.

Fishing Club Runs Coastal Invitational

By Tom Wiemken

The Fishing Club, open to both male and female students, annually runs the Coastal Carolina Invitational, the world's only intercollegiate fishing match and seminar.

Last year's event was the thirteenth in an unbroken line starting in 1974. Competing teams have come from Japan, Canada, and the United States. Schools represented include Clemson, the University of North Carolina, N.C. State, Yale, and Princeton. Out of politeness, the Coastal anglers win only in presidential election years. This past year they finished a close second to Francis Marion College.

Last year the club competed in an intercollegiate bass fishing contest for the first time, finishing ahead of two North Carolina schools and, behind F.M.C.

Besides generating good publicity for the college and the area in such publications as the New York Times, Salt Water Sportsman, and Field & Stream, the club members enjoy some great competitive fishing on local boats such as the "Hurricane" out of North Myrtle Beach and the "Captain Bill" out of Murrells Inlet.

Evening seminars on all aspects of sport fishing and conversation add to the academic prestige of the Invitational. Incidentally, last year's team captain, Tom Wiemken, and coach Professor Donald Millus also set a local record taking five king mackerel weighing 135 pounds to put in the chowder pot for a fundraiser for the Fishing Club and the Society of the Undersea World.

Last year the club honored Mr. Hal Lyman, publisher emeritus and founder of Salt Water Sportsman magazine for his contributions to sport fishing. Previous recipients were George Reiger of Field & Stream and Ed Migdalski of Yale University.

Students With Summer Jobs May Pay Taxes

Many students with summer or part-time jobs can no longer claim exemption from federal income tax withholding, according to Donald L. Breihan, District Director for South Carolina.

Because of tax law changes made by the Tax Reform Act of 1986, students who can be claimed as dependents on their parents' or another persons tax return cannot claim exemption from withholding for 1987 if they have any unearned income, such as interest on savings, and their wages plus this unearned income will be more than $500 for the year, said Breihan.

"However, students whose wages for the year are $2,540 or less and who have no unearned income generally can be exempt from withholding," he added.

Students can claim exemption from tax withholding on their Form W-4 or W-4A, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate," only if last year they had to pay no federal income tax and this year they expect to have to pay no federal income tax, Breihan said. "If exempt status is claimed, it remains in effect until February 15 of the next year."

Generally, students not exempt from withholding should claim one withholding allowance if they have only one job at a time. Or, if they need or want more tax withheld, they should claim zero allowances. "The Form W-4 or W-4A instructions have more details," he explained. "And IRS has prepared Publication 919, 'Is My Withholding Correct?'" to help taxpayers determine whether they are having the right amount withheld."

Many students who had to pay no tax in the past will have to pay tax for 1987, and so cannot be exempt from withholding, because of the Tax Reform Act of 1986, according to Breihan.

"Beginning in 1987, any child who may be claimed as a dependent on a parent's return is not entitled to a personal exemption on his or her own return," he explained.

Also, the standard deduction for an individual who can be claimed as a dependent on another taxpayer's return is limited to the greater of:

- o $500, or
- o the individual's earned income, but not more than the allowable standard deduction.

"For example, a dependent child who is not blind, has unearned income, and does not work gets a standard deduction of $500, if this dependent child works and earns over $500, the standard deduction equals earned income, but may not exceed $2,540 for 1987 tax return and will have a tax liability."

Forms W-4 and W-4A are available from employers. Or they may be obtained from the IRS by calling 1-800-424-3676.

Coastal Duffers Finish Third In Season

The Coastal Carolina golf team ended the 1987 campaign with a third place showing in the 3rd Annual Big South Conference Golf Tournament in Buies Creek, N.C.

The Chants remained consistent in conference play. Coach Billy Bernier's team finished second in the two previous conference tournaments.

Augusta captured the event for the third straight year and the host Camels took the second place honors. Three Chants finished in the top ten in the tournament and were named to the All-Conference team including Brian Lamb (7th individually), Gus Pick (8th) and John Fairley (10th).

School Claims Fourth In Commissioner's Race

Coastal Carolina captured third place in both baseball and men's golf to take fourth place in the Commissioner's Cup Standings. The award is based on the combined finish of all athletic teams in the conference.

Winthrop College won the cup for the second straight year with 66.5 points, followed by Campbell with 57.0, Radford with 54.0 and Coastal with 52.5 points.

Mike Prochaska manages to get the throw to first in one of Coastal's victories.

Chanticleer mascot shows his stuff.

Your Mascot:

Chanticleer's One Super Bird

By Donald Millus

A former Princeton Tiger and Rice Owl once taught at Coastal Carolina College. "At last," he said, "I'm at a college that has a unique mascot." He was right. So are you. Coastal's mascot, Chanticleer, (same name as this newspaper) is a super-stud rooster who can quote the classics, is quick thinking, and learns from his mistakes.

For those who have never read much, Chanticleer is a famous literary rooster. In Chaucer's Canterbury Tales (14th century) Chanticleer outwits a fox, thanks to his quick thinking under pressure. He also services a flock of hens daily. His special mate, Pertelote, is just as sassy and smart.

So if you want a mascot like a tiger, a tar heel, or a gamecock, you know where you can find them. Chanticleer is definitely not chicken or brainless. He blends in to Coastal's athletic history, which has been traditionally that of the underdog, except in baseball where the Chanticleers won eight championships in a recent ten-year stretch. We've also scored some great upsets in men's basketball, women's softball and volleyball, and tennis. Naturally, considering the area, we have great golf teams and, depending on our imports, fantastic soccer teams. Also, we've scored three world championships in deep-sea sport fishing, but that's a club sport.

Not bad for the "Cocks at the Beach." Remember that more people in the world have read about Chanticleer's adventures than have attended all the games ever played by tigers, gamecocks and tar heels combined.

Chants To Host 1988 Baseball Tourney

Commissioner Singleton announced that Coastal Carolina will be the site for the 1988 Big South Conference Baseball Tournament in May. Specific dates have not been decided.

The three-day double-elimination event will be played in the recently renovated Coastal Carolina Baseball Stadium. The stadium now contains seating for over 3,500 spectators, including box seats and permanent bleachers in the main grandstand. A brand new lighting system will allow night games during the tournament and a new inning-by-inning scoreboard now stands beyond the rightfield fence.

The Chants won the the 1986 tournament in three straight games, while finishing third in last year's event in Buies Creek, N.C.

Moody Named NSACA All-American

Coastal Carolina College basketball player Greg Moody has been named to the 1986-87 National Strength and Conditioning Association All-American team.

The 6-foot 2-inch senior guard from Roselle, New Jersey follows Chanticleer baseball pitcher Jack Jolly as the second consecutive recipient of the All-American honor from Coastal Carolina. Jolly won the award last year as a junior.

The All-Americans are named on the basis of their dedication to improving their strength and physical abilities. Moody and Jolly were both recommended and nominated by Coastal's Strength Coach Ed Cerny.

Burger, Kennedy Propose Literacy Corps

By Warren E. Burger
and
Edward M. Kennedy

An idea has been presented to Congress that is worth trying in the battle against illiteracy: to create a Literacy Corps that will enable college students to volunteer for a few hours a week as assistant teachers for students in nearby public schools or other institutions in return for college credit.

We pride ourselves on being an "advanced nation," but illiteracy in America is at a level no nation should tolerate. Vast numbers of Americans lack the basic reading skills to function in society. According to an estimate, twenty-three million citizens over the age of 18 cannot read a poison warning on a can of pesticide or a package of cigarettes, the headline of a daily newspaper, or a letter from their child's teacher. An additional thirty-five million are semi-literate, reading so poorly that they barely function at a survival level. That makes 58 million adults, roughly a third of the nation's population over 18, whom our system of education failed in their adolescent years and who are functionally illiterate today. The result is a massive problem of illiteracy that costs the nation heavily in welfare and unemployment, industrial accidents and lost productivity, and dead-end lives of crime and drugs. Illiteracy is also a threat to our constitutional system: how can a functional illiterate really understand that system or defend it effectively? Even if some of these figures are overstated, at best the picture is bleak.

A recent study complained that America has slipped behind Japan in the quality of education, but the truth is, we have slipped behind 47 other countries, too. American ranks 49th in literacy among the 159 countries of the world!

So far, we have not addressed this problem very effectively. The Federal Government spends billions of dollars every year on education, but only a pittance is targeted on illiteracy. In fact, total spending on illiteracy in the United States reaches only about four percent of those who need help. The National Advisory Council on Adult Education estimates that we would need to spend five billion dollars -- fifty times more than is allocated today -- to have a significant impact on the problem through costly traditional programs.

New spending of that magnitude is out of the question because of the federal deficit. The challenge is to persuade America to do more without spending more. That is a tall order, but it is not impossible -- which is where a Literacy Corps would come in.

Pilot projects at the University of Miami and St. John's University in New York City, relying so far on corporate donations, have made a start that provides a pattern. The results of these modest efforts are so compelling that the time has come for a national effort.

Legislation pending in Congress seeks $27 million over the next two years to launch Literacy Corps projects at approximately a thousand colleges and universities across the country. The bill will provide start-up grants of about $25,000 per college to cover the initial administrative costs of campus programs.

Participating college students would sign up for electives offered by their colleges and taught by their professors in semester-long courses comparable to those in "clinical legal education" at many law schools, although the focus of the Literacy Corps would be very different. As part of the course, college students would be given instruction on how to tutor in reading. In addition to teaching in local elementary and high schools, Literacy Corps participants could also tutor in Head Start centers, institutions for the disabled, adult continuing education programs, jails, or other facilities where supervised classroom-type settings are available.

In a typical ten-week semester, each college student in the program would provide 60 hours of tutoring. If a thousand colleges participated, 100,000 or more students might join the Literacy Corps, and a very large amount of tutoring could be generated over the next two years.

In addition to tackling the problem of illiteracy, a Literacy Corps has another benefit-- harnessing the idealism, and volunteerism, and the commitment of young Americans. So far, initiatives in this area have been stymied by the high price of conventional proposals such as a National Service Corps or R.O.T.C.-type scholarships or loan-forgiveness programs for students willing to commit themselves to a period of post-graduate public service.

We believe a Literacy Corps has all the potential for today that President Kennedy's Peace Corps had in the 1960's. Young Americans in this generation are as ready, willing and eager to respond to the challenge of public service as their parents were a generation ago, when President Kennedy urged them to "Ask not what your country can do for you--ask what you can do for your country."

If colleges and universities across the country respond by accepting the Literacy Corps as part of their educational process, students will have the opportunity to participate by many thousands and America may at last begin to deal in more effective and affordable ways with the shameful and festering problem of illiteracy in our midst.

One final point--the Literacy Corps is not a new idea. It is based on a model conceived in 1969 by an unusually creative private citizen, Norman Manasa of Washington, D.C., who has been knocking on many doors for the better part of a decade seeking support for the concept. Manasa now heads the Washington Education Project, which is seeking broader corporate financing for the idea if Congressional action is too slow. In 1984, Manasa wrote a very readable paperback elaborating on the program called "The Washington Education Project, Inc. -- or How You Can Get A Tutor For Your Kid, Just Like Rich People." It may not be on the best-seller lists today, but it deserves to be on the shelves of every college bookstore in the country--and perhaps it will be. The Literacy Corps is an idea whose time is overdue.

Counseling Services Are Available

By Joe Mazurkiewicz,
Director of Counseling Services

Every student who enters college faces many decisions along the way. Students consult many people in making these decisions--friends, teachers, administrators, parents, and clergy. The purpose of the counseling services offered at Coastal is to assist students in the decision-making process with an unbiased, but interested, perspective.

The Counseling Center offers a wide variety of services to students, faculty, and staff. Individual and group programs are designed to assist students with personal and developmental issues encountered from time to time in all of our lives. Typical concerns of students include developing satisfying interpersonal relationships, independence, feelings of inadequacy, depression, loneliness, family conflicts, and coping with the ever present academic and social stressors associated with college. In addition, many students find the Center a place where they can explore themselves in relation to their world and to grow and develop to their fullest potential.

The Center believes that learning on campus is not limited to the classroom. Our social and emotional development is an important aspect of developing a healthy and productive future. The behavioral patterns we establish now are likely to affect our future career and interpersonal happiness. Taking a course in "yourself" is one way the Center can assist students in clarifying goals through deeper exploration and understanding of themselves.

When you find yourself faced with a decision which requires some working through, especially in the areas of career and personal concerns, we invite you to come to the Center. The Center is staffed with two professional counselors experienced in working with issues that affect college students. The Counseling Center is located on the second floor of the Student Center. Appointments can be made by calling extension 2305 or stopping by the Center between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Services are offered free of charge to all students, faculty, and staff. For more information, please feel free to contact Dr. Joe Mazurkiewicz, Director of Counseling Services; Ms. Trenna Page, Career Planning and Placement Counselor; or Ms. Barbara Prevatte, Administrative Specialist.

Office Is Helping With Career Goals

By Trenna Page
Career Counseling

The Office of Career Planning and Placement is designed to assist Coastal Carolina students and alumni in the selection and achievement of career goals. Students are encouraged to explore their values, interests and aptitudes, as well as review opportunities and alternatives as early as possible in their academic program. Enabling them to set goals for their future career upon graduation.

The services provided by this office include a company, library, a school library, which includes information on graduate/professional schools, a computerized guidance system, known as SIGI (Systematic Interactive Guidance and Information), individual and group counseling designed to assist students in the formulation of personal values, skills, and interests and personalities; periodic workshops on career objectives, resume writing, interviewing skills and job search strategies; a placement service for students upon graduation; and a credential file service for graduating seniors and alumni.

This fall the Office of Career Planning and Placement will provide for the students a Job Locator Service. This service will provide the students with a more structured procedure for obtaining work while they are still in school. The service will have available for students information and listings of jobs in the local area which students could maintain while taking classes at Coastal Carolina College.

If students are having problems deciding on majors, need help in finding a part-time job or have any career related concern or problem they are encouraged to contact Trenna Page, Career Planning and Placement Counselor at extension 2307 or Room 206 Student Center.

Faculty In The News...

David E. Majewski, instructor of theatre and speech, and the Coastal Carolina Theatre have been awarded a mini-grant from the South Carolina Bar in the amount of $1785, to help fund a production of "Scratch" by Archibald MacLeish. This production which will be performed in May, 1988 is one of three productions funded by the South Carolina

Bar as part of the "Bravo Constitution!" "Bravo Constitution" is a local theater project which is being used to help commemorate the bicentennial of the United States Constitution.
